

Kinship Caregiving

Federal Fiscal Year 2017

Relatives and other kin are invaluable sources of support and connection for children. Kinship caregiving exists for children both inside and outside of the child welfare system. Relatives may offer to care for a child to keep them out of foster care, or may serve as a placement for a child currently in the child welfare system—either as a kinship or formal foster care placement. Relatives who care for children in foster care may have the option to enter into guardianships, which are formal legal relationships that allow the child welfare case to close while allowing the birth parents to retain parental rights. In some states, such guardians receive a subsidy for the care of the child.

Source, unless specified otherwise: This information is from the federal Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting System (AFCARS) and represents the federal fiscal year 2017 reporting period (October 1, 2016 – September 30, 2016). Unless otherwise noted, for each calculation, children who were missing data on the relevant indicator were excluded from analyses.

¹ Includes children of all ages currently in foster care on September 30, 2017.

² For all relevant measures, length of stay in care is calculated based on the current removal episode.

³ Data for households with grandparent living with a grandchild during 2017 is publicly available on the American Fact Finder website from the Census Bureau.

⁴ Includes relatives and stepparents. Children who were over age 21 were excluded from analyses.

⁵ Hispanic children are not included in counts for specific racial groups. Data for the general child population under age 18 for 2017 is from the U. S. Census Bureau and is publicly available at the Kids Count Data Center.

⁷ Guardianship can include non-relative guardians.

⁸ Hispanic children are not included in counts for specific racial groups. Children whose race was reported as unknown are not included.

¹¹ It is possible for states to have had a KinGAP program as of December 2018 and not have reported any KinGAP expenditures in SFY 2016, or vice versa. This could be due to a variety of state-specific reasons.
